AS THE FIRST large scale meeting of the 1944-45 season, the talk here Sunday by Rabbi James G. Heller, should unquestionably draw a capacity audience.

The Jewish community of the United States will soon be called on to make tremendous decisions in connections with the plight of European Jewry, and in order to make these decisions intelligently, the community must have the necessary information and background.

It is in this connection that Rabbi Heller's talk is important. Probably one could count on their fingers the number of Jewish men in the United States who know as thoroughly as does Rabbi Heller the true situation in Europe in regards to the Jews still surviving there.

There will be no solicitation of funds, in fact there won't be any for some weeks to come. After the talk there will be a long question and answer period.

It goes without question then, that the Indianapolis Jewish community will turn out en masse Sunday night. This means card parties will not be held, other home entertainments will not be arranged, and the movies will be without their usual Sunday night complement of Jewish film fans.

Best Wishes to Rabbi Taxay

READERS OF THE Post will learn with something of a shock that Rabbi J. Marshall Taxay, for twenty years spiritual leader of the United Temple and Temple Israel in Terre Haute, has accepted a larger pulpit in Akron, O., and will soon leave Indiana.

For Rabbi Taxay, who is a powerful orator, has probably been heard by more of the Indiana Jewish community, than almost any other rabbi in the State.

Naturally, the Jewish community of Terre Haute will see their friend and advisor leave with real regret. And so too, will the Jewish community of Indiana, who have known Rabbi Taxay as an ardent worker in B'nai B'rith and in Zionism.

The Jewish Post, as the medium of expression of Indiana Jewry, learns of Rabbi Taxay's decision with mingled pride and regret. The Post bids Rabbi Taxay godspeed and hopes that he will find his work in his new congregation pleasant and stimulating. Indiana Jewry will watch his progress with eagerness and satisfaction.

I. Krakowitz, 71, Dies Suddenly

Ignatz Krakowitz, 71, 320 E. 46th St., died Saturday, Sept. 2, after a sudden heart attack in his home.

He came to Indianapolis 45 years ago and was a member of Beth El-Zedeck synagogue and Beth El Men's Club, the B'nai B'rith, the Jewish Educational Association, the local Zionist organization and Monument Lodge No. 657, F. and A. M.

Survivors include a son, Arthur Krakowitz, with whom he made his home; a daughter, Mrs. John S. Greenbaum, Buffalo, N. Y.; a sister, Miss Margaret Krakowitz, Brooklyn, N. Y., and five grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted Sunday at the Aaron Ruben funeral home with Rabbi Israel Chodos and Cantor A. Portnov officiating. The Masonic Lodge assisted in the services. Burial was in Ohev Zedeck cemetery.

SARA'S COLUMN

By SARA MESSING STERN

SPEAKING TO MRS. SIMON L. KISER (Florence Bamberger) recently, I asked her how the Sisterhood raised money in the earlier days. She said, "I can recall one Sunday supper given in the basement of the Occidental Hotel located at the South East corner of Illinois and Washington Streets. Daisy Levey Livingston (Mrs. Joe) was chairman. Theresa (Mrs. Michael Bamberger) and I took one whole Sunday to marinate seventy or one hundred herring. Oh, those onions we had to peel and slice! And those herring we had to soak and clean. Then we helped wait on the tables and, dead tired, looked for something to eat. There wasn't one piece of herring left! The herring had been served, each with a hot potato. The charge was thirty-five cents. And we always made good money from those suppers! Oh yes! I was particularly known for my double chocolate cakes. So when it came time to earn my five dollars — each member pledged that, annually I baked three of those chocolate cakes. I set no price. But Sam Rauh sent me ten dollars, Harry A. Kahn, five dollars and a woman, she particularly should have known the cost of baking a cake like those — sent me two dollars! One Sunday, at the Indianapolis Club, before the men went home to dinner, Simon (her late husband,) auctioned off one of my cakes and realized five dollars for the Sisterhood; and at another time, we chanced off a crock of six of my marinated herring and that brought in ten dollars. Jesse Mossler won the cake and I. Ferdinand Kahn, the crock of herring. We also gave shampoos, tonic-rub and all the fixings to our men for one dollar. That money was easily made!" There you have it! The personal work brings results and creates an interest in the success of the organization. If our Temple on Delaware and Tenth Streets had a half-way decent kitchen upstairs, (how Mrs. Harold Platt, president at the time, inspired the members to raise the necessary money, only to have the Board vote "thumbs down" on the project) the Sisterhood members would be glad to serve luncheons and dinners. The dumb waiter at Temple is, assuredly, dumb! We used to run up and down stairs because service was so slow. Our feet moved quicker, our hands handled more, than that dumb-waiter! If we had a fully equipped kitchen upstairs, we would have a closer affiliation and the meals are money-makers. I vote for a new kitchen upstairs fully equipped.

CONGRATULATIONS to Gertrude Caroline Burger Weiss, otherwise Mrs. Jacob Weiss, on her birthday, Sept. 17. She has had a most interesting number of experiences and her contribution to the welfare of the Indianapolis Jewish community is outstanding! Let me tell you something about her girlhood in her native New York City. She studied art at Cooper Union, New York City and costume designing under the well known Ethel Traphagen. (Traphagen School of Art.) She did sketching for several Fifth Avenue firms. She had known Jacob Weiss since she was sixteen. Twenty-one years ago he insisted that she had enough education and persuaded her to marry him. They moved to Indianapolis seventeen years ago, with their son, Dick, now twenty and a U. S. Marine. Barbara, their daughter, born here, is now fifteen. Since living here, Mrs. Weiss has assisted in every Kirshbaum Community Center and Jewish Welfare fund drive. She has been a director and a vice-president of the local Council of Jewish Women and was president for two years of the local Chapter of Hadassah. She formed the Business and Professional group of Hadassah and was responsible for inaugurating the first Donor Luncheon in Indianapolis. She has been president of the Beth-El Zedeck Sisterhood, has written and directed several skits and one two-act play and taken part in many revues for local Jewish organizations. Her hobbies? Sewing and reading and writing! You will admit she has been a distinct acquisition to the Indianapolis Jewish Community.

PERSONAL CONGRATULATIONS to Rabbi and Mrs. Maurice Goldblatt on their fifteenth wedding anniversary, Sept. 4, and to the Jewish community who have been privileged to have such a couple here. There is an old saying "The roots of a man's fineness and strength of character are nurtured by the companionship of an intelligent and loving wife." It is true with Rabbi and Mrs. Goldblatt. To them, to Mrs. Goldblatt's parents who celebrated their fortieth wedding anniversary and to daughter, Ruth Goldblatt, her twelfth birthday, continued happiness!

LUDWIG SATZ, FAMOUS ACTOR, DIES IN NEW YORK AT 53

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
 NEW YORK.—Ludwig Satz, one of the leading Yiddish actors of this generation died here at the age of 53 after a long illness. Alexander Woolcott once called Satz "The Charlie Chaplin of the Yiddish Stage." The late David Belasco once said that he had never missed an opening of a Satz play downtown.

Satz was born in Lemberg, Polish Galicia, where he made his stage debut at the age of 5 in Ignace Paderewski's production of his own opera, "Maru." He came to this country at the age of 20. The late Jacob Adler, star of the Yiddish stage, gave him the first job. On the Yiddish stage Mr. Satz appeared in many musical and dramatic successes. He was featured with such outstanding stars of the Yiddish stage as Maurice Schwartz, Jacob Ben-Ami, Bertha Gersen, Celia Adler and Molly Picon.

He achieved his greatest artistic and financial successes in Peretz Hirschbein's play "The Blacksmith's Daughter," and "Green Fields," in Ossyp Dymov's play "A World in Flames," the late Nadir's "Slaves of the People," and in H. Leiyik's "Rags."

Ceremony at Capitol as Petition Presented

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

WASHINGTON.—A petition signed by 500,000 American citizens of every creed and extraction urging the establishment of a special intergovernmental committee to rescue Jews from occupied Europe was presented this week at the White House to General Edwin Martin Watson, secretary to President Roosevelt, by a delegation of Jewish and Christian religious leaders. The petition also asked for admittance of refugees to Palestine.

Earlier, the delegation, headed by Rabbi Eliezer Silver, president of the Union of Orthodox Rabbis of the United States and Archbishop Athenagoras of the Greek Orthodox church called at the British Embassy and were received by Mr. John Russell, Embassy secretary. After a brief meeting with the majority and minority leaders of both Houses of Congress in the office of Rep. John McCormack, Mass. The demonstration was planned by the Emergency Committee to Save the Jewish People of Europe.
